How Germany May be Punished for Excluding Our Beef.

ADULTERATED WINES SENT HERE

More of a Certain Brand of Rhine Wine Sent to Us Than the District Is Capable of Producing-Secretary Morton Will Recommend Inspection.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Secretary Morton, of the department of agriculture, is giving earnest attention to the question of the inspection of foods exported and imported into the United States, and as a result may suggest some very immediate is in his next report. While the matter is already devoted no one to which he has already devoted no little consideration, the recent action of Sermany in prohibiting the reception of American cattle and dressed beef into her ports has brought the system, or lack of system, to the front as a vital question.

Secretary Morton thinks the principle of requiring inspection of foods and drinks is a wise one, if properly and efficiently enforced, but thinks also that the present regulations governing commerce between the United States and Germany, France and other countries are in some respects disadvantageous to American interests. The principal importations from those countries to America, wine, brandies and seer, come in without any assurance to the buyers that they are obtaining pure aricles, free from adulteration, beyond the epresentation of the firms from which bey are purchased.

In - waking of the matter Secretary Mor-

"I have decided to recommend in my next report that an inspection of these imports be provided for. There should be a microscopical inspection at the ports of entry to detect the presence of adulteration, and the shipments should be inspecied also by officials of the countries from which they come, and certificates of their purity furnished."

In this connection the secretary called attention to a report made to the department of state some years ago by Consul George Roosevelt, at Bordeaux, upon the adulteration of Bordeaux wines, in which, after citing several methods of adulteration and coloring which had come under his observation, the consul gave it as his judgment that 5) per cent of the wines and branches sent to the United States from that district were falsified, packed under labels of brands of higher quality, and adulterated with poisonous chemicals.

He reported that the process known as wetting was winked at by the customs officers and chamber of commerce, when resort ri to by exporters, and suggested the organization of a bareau of analysis at post of the tothose attached to to the French --rvice.

The constraint to believe that much of this soft of imposition is still thrust upon the American people. One instance has come under his observation of the lear importation into the United States of a stand of Rhine win which can or produced only in a small tract of Gorginan , but of which this counery receives more than talsparticular tract is expublic of professing.

HARRISON AT ALBANY.

Police Overriden in the Crush to Greet the Ex-President.

ALEANY, Nov. 3.-Pive thousand people jostled and pushed and defied the police in such a manner in the Union station yes-terday afternoon that all control of them was lost, and the officers were simply obliged to stand by and aid women, who had unluckily gotten into a crush, or clear the tracks when a train appeared. Even the approach of an engine did not seem to make the vast assemblage move, and when the train bearing ex-President Harrison rolled into the depot yard, at 4:30, the engineer had to stop several times in order to avoid rulying down some of the crowd.

As soon as the train stopped the crowd surged forward towards it, carrying screaming women and children, and several women were taken out with difficulty in a fainting condition. Such a scene has never been witnessed in Albany before. Not only was the platform and yard crowded with people, but the roofs of the sheds were black, and when the train stopped men and boys climbed on top of the roof of the cars.

Ex-President Harrison was applauded and cheered when he stepped out upon the platform, and it was some minutes before he could speak. His words were only heard by the people within a radius of fifty feet, the vast crowd outside of that circle being disappointed. He touched briefly upon local issues, eulogized ex-Vice President Morton and then entered into a brief discussion of the Issues of the campaign.

Great cheers greeted the conclusion of the speech, and after bowing to the crowd General Harrison returned to his car. The train pulled out at 4:45.

A TERRIFIC LANDSLIDE.

It Crushes Down on a Little Settlement, Killing Four People.

NANAIMO, B. C., Nov. 3.-The steamer Louise, just down from the north, brings intelligence of a terrible disaster at Shushartic bay, at the northwest end of Vancouver Island, which completely wrecked the settlement recently established there, known as the Canadian Co-operative com-monwealth. The settlement consisted of six persons-five men and one woman. On Monday morning last, before the occupants had arisen, a landslide tore cown the mountain side, crushing in the log building, and carried it and the ground on which it stood about a hundred feet, the callin being buried several feet under the Four inmates lost their lives. Fred Jones and E. Patterson, of Vancouver, were badly hurt about the legs and arms. Harry Kipling, of Victoria, was buried up to the waist in dirt, jammed between two logs, and before he could be released the tide reached his mouth. IMPORTANT JAPANESE VICTORY

The Capture of Fung Wang Ching Leaves the Moukden Road Open.

LONDON, Nov. 3.-A dispatch from Shanghai says it is now asserted there that no Japanese have landed near Talienhwai, but that they have landed at Takushan, at the mouth of the Yalu river. The dispatch adds that it is the intention of the Japanese forces to attack Fung Wang Ching from two sides. The Japanese legation has received another dispatch stating that Field Marshal Yamagata has captured Fung Wang Ching, a city in the Chinese province of Licutung, near the Corean frontier. The Chinese defending the place fled towards Matienling. The foregoing victory is an important one. It leaves the Moukden road open to the Japanese, as the Chinese are unlikely to offer further resistance to the advance of the Japanese army.

A Buffalo Parricide.

BUFFALO, Nov. 3 .- Without known provocation, William Gipp shot his mother to death and wounded his father at their home in this city. One bullet struck her in the temple, while another took effect in her body. She died almost instantly. The shots aroused the family. The father was the first to appear, and at him the son fired twice, one builter striking him at the corner of the right eye, near the nose, and the other taking effect in his right breast. The other sons then entered the room, and after a brief struggle William ran out into the back yard and escaped. He was captured in a barn last night. He is a raving maniac, and it required the combined strength of eight strapping big fellows to hold him at police headquarters. The father's con-

Six Thousand Alleged Illegal Votes.

SAN TRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The biggest political sensation of the campaign was sprung here yesterday afternoon. C. J. Stillwell, a private detective, brought suit against Register Evans and 6,000 voters who, he charges, are illegally on the rolls. Stillwell claims to represent the Democratic and non-partisan party of the election committee. Every one of the 6,000 men accused are mentioned by name. It is alleged that they have no legal residence. The local courts refuse to take action. Stillwell declares that he will secure warrants and arrest the accused men as they appear at the polls to vote.

British Censulate Not Attacked.

Washington, Nov. 3.—The state department has no advices from Peru respecting the ill treatment of the British consul at Callao, the latest official news from Minister McKenzie being of date Oct. 13 last. At Huaraz the government prefect has rented a guerilla force and killed ninety-one men.

THE DEAD RULER'S LAST HOURS.

Official Report of the Passing Away of Russia's Ruler-Princess Alix to Return to Darmstadt, to Remain During the

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—The following is the text of the manifesto issued by Czar Nicolas II and published in The Official

"We hereby announce to all our faithful subjects that God, in his inscrutable providence, has seen fit to assign a limit to the precious life of our dearly loved imperial father. His grievous sufferings yielding neither to medical skill nor the beneficent climate of the Crimea, he died at Livadia on the 20th of October (Nov. 1), surrounded by his family and in the arms of the czarina and ourselves. Our grief is not to be expressed by words, but that grief every Russian heart will understand, and we believe there is no spot throughout the vast Russian empire in which hot tears will not flow for the emperor thus prematurely called away.

"In this sad and solemn hour in which we ascend our ancestrial throne of the Russian empire and czurdom of Poland and the grand duchy of Finland, indissolubly linked with it. we, however, remember the legacy left to us by our lamented father and imbued with it, we, in the presence of the most high, take a most sacred vow to make our sole aim the peaceful development of the power and the glory of our beloved Russia and the happiness of all our faithful subjects.

"While we offer before the throne of the Almighty Ruler our heartfelt praise for the unstained soul of the departed, we command our subjects to take the oath of allegiance to ourselves and our successor, the Grand Duke Alexandiavitch, who will bear the title of crown prince and czarowitz until it shall please God to bless our approaching union with the Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt with the birth of a LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Daily News publishes a dispatch from its correspondent at Berlin saying that Czar Nicolas himself telegraphed the news of the death of his father to Emperor William and the Danish royal family. The correspondent adds that the German socialist papers give open venato their hatred of the late ezar. The Volks Zeitung says it is needless to shed a tear for the deceased representative of a dying despotism. The anti-Jewish Staatsburger Zeitung insinuates that the ezar may not have died a natural death, and that Jews possibly had a hand in the matter. The papers generally are friendly to Czar Nicolas. His manifes to has made a good impression.

The Lokal Anzeiger gives the details of Emperor Alexander's last days till the end of October, when his illness took a turn for the worse. He had such a good appetite that the physicians were astonished. After his arrival at Spala his strength seemed to diminish rapidly, but the physicians succeeded in restoring him. From the 22d to the 29th of October he was able to take solid food. Up to then he had partaken only of fluids, principally buttermilk. The menu of the lunch, signed by the physician on duty, shows that the emperor only last Saturday partook of the fol-

Fish, soup, roast duck and stewed fruit. Before lunch salt anchovies were greatly enjoyed. A little later on the same day the exar ate a pudding of groats, with fruit sauce. Toward the last the patient ate almost nothing. Even buttermilk be drank with reluctance.

Contrary to the expressed wish of his physicians, the czar slept the last few nights of his life alone in his room, "I will not be disturbed," he answered to their persuasions. In the adjoining apartment the czarina slept, and next to this the physicians and nurses watched. "How well I have slept," he repeatedly said in the morning to the czarina.

Up to the time his illness took its last fatal turn the ezar dressed himself without assistance. This greatly fatigued him, but he listened to no warning words, saying that he used to do it, and therefore must do so. After dressing at 9 o'clock he was lifted into his invalid's chair, in which he remained regularly until 11 e'clock at

The correspondent of The Daily News at Livadia telegraphs: "I have received from the imperial court the following report of the czar's last hours:

Czar Alexander's death was a pious and devout Christian one. He died as only a true man can die, and, as in life, was inspired by faith, love and devotion. Some days ago the czar already felt the approach of death, and prepared himself to die s a faithful Christian, but without neglecting the affairs of the government. During his last night he was sleepless.

Thursday morning he said to the empress: "I feel that my life is drawing to an end. Be composed, my mind is made up." Then he ordered his family to assemble round him and asked his coal ssor to administer the sacrament. He took it with pious devotion, repeating the prayer distinctly in a loud, clear voice. He was sitting in an arm chair, and did not for a moment lose consciousness. After the liturgy the czar sent for Father Ivan and prayed with him for half an hour. Later he asked Father Ivan to come again and repeated with him the prayers for the dying, and received extreme unction. Father Ivan remained present until his majesty died. The correspondent of The Daily News at St. Petersburg telegraphs that though the Russians have not the same way of showing motorning as the western nations, it is evident that the death of the czar has mad or her and deeper impression han might have been expected.

street, are erouded with a multitude of prophe most of whom are clad in black, who in whispering tones discuss events. The theaters and schools are closed. The churches are crowded with people who wish to pray for the soul of the dead ezar. From other towns reports are received bearing testimony to the spirit of deep mourning that prevails.

It is understood that the body of the czar will be consecrated at Moscow and then conveyed to St. Petersburg, where it will lie in state four days.

The Russian court will mourn for six months. Princess Alix, the betrothed of the Czar Nicolas, will for the present return to Darmstadt with her brother, the Grand Duke of Hesse, as the marriage cannot take place Juring the period of mourning.

According to advices from Livadia the exarina's health, though unfavorable, causes no apprehension. Everything is prepared here and in Moscow to suppress possible disturbances.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Volume of Preduction Is Still Well Maintained.

NEW YORK, Nov 3 - Bradstreets' review of trade says: General trade continues on conservative lines, there being litthe far reaching improvement in business circles as compared with a week ago, aside from the settlement of the strike at Fall River, one of the effects of which is expected to be the steadying of prices of cotton fabrics and an inducement to cloth printers to order for future deliveries. There is some encouragement drawn from a firmer market for cheaper grades of shoes, for drugs at leading centers, and for hogs at western markets, due to a decline in receipts, and for fruits on the arrival of colder weather. Another favorable report is that to Bradstreets concerning October bank clearings, which reflect the enlarged fall trade in a total larger than for any month since June, 1893.

R. C. Dun & Co.'s review says: The last week of October, with an exciting election near, cannot indicate much of the true condition of business. In some trades the season is too far advanced for great activity, and in others the supposed effects of the voting hinder operations. But is is satisfactory that the volume of production is well maintained, and in one or two branches increased, that no monetary difficulties disturb, that breadstuffs are a little higher, and that no material decline appears during the week in manufactured products. At present the volume of business transacted is on the whole smaller than last year, and much smaller than in 1892, though a presidential election was then close at hand.

During the past week failures have been 249 in the United States, against 358 for the same week last year, and 50 in Canada, against 28 last year.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—The big pacing race between John R. Gentry and Robert J. drew a crowd of 3.400 enthusiastic horse lovers to Point Breeze yesterday, but the shouters were doomed to disappointment, for the event proved a fizzle. Gentry recently sustained an injury at Nashville, and as he had not fully recovered M. E. McHenry, his trainer, was granted permission to withdraw his stallion at the end of the second heat. Aside from this fact the heats that were paced lacked interest because of the comparatively slow time made-2:08 and 2:121/1. After Gentry's withdrawal Robert J. won with case, and later in the day, when he was sent a mile with a running mate, he succeeded in lowering the track record of 2.08, held by Mascot, to 2.06.

Mrs. Herreman Before the Lexow Investigating Committee.

PAID A FORTUNE FOR PROTECTION.

She Declares That It Cost Her $25,000 for "Presents" to Police Officials, Court Lawyers and Policemen-Police Subscribed a Purse to Send Her Away.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The long looke? for witness from whom the general public expected the most sensational discloures in connection with the recent polices exposures was the star attraction of yesterday's session of the Lexow committee. Mrs. Mathilda Herreman is rather a large woman, with not an unkindly expression. rather masculine features, black hair and snappy black eyes. She was a very willing witness with two exceptions (in the cases of Policeman Cooney and an unknown captain), and seemed determined to tell all she knew.

By her evidence three new police cap-tains—Haughey, Brogan and Ryan—were added to the list of alleged blackmailers, and also several wardmen. Lawyer Price was also named as a go between, but the most interesting statement made by the witness was the ruin of her niece, whom she had been trying to save from a disrepurable life. The girl was led astray by her own mother, who was the proprietres: of a disorderly house. Mrs. Herreman said she made several attempts to save the girl through the police, and even implicated a police justice (Judge Hogan) who helped to shield a pelice captain by refusing to act in the matter. The woman told she had been bled by Wardman Reynolds, acting under Captain Haughey, she paying $25 a month at first. and atterward $100 a month. The witness said she had paid almost every policeman on the post. She called her payments presents. When Mr. Goff said to her: Now, there is a certain police captain you wish to protect?" she answered frankly, "Yes, sir." Mr. Goff tried to have the witness mention the name of the captain who she was endeavoring to shield. "I won todo it if you kill me," said the wit-

Mrs. Herreman declared she had paid the police, police court lawyers and prison $25,090, and that today she had not $100. She also declared under oath that the police raised a purse of $1,700 to send her away in order to prevent her appearance at this investigation.

The day's session as a whole was not prolific of sensational features, but was more in the way of corroborative evidence of the corruption already brought to light. Street Commissioner Andrews was on hand at an early hour and demanded to be sworn in to make a denial to the charges made by Mrs. Tomlinson on Thursday that he had received $500 to secure a licenso for a disreputable hotel. He was not sworn, but his denial was read.

Justice Hogan Indignant.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 .- Police Justice Hogan threatens that when the grand jury convenes he will go before it and demand the indictment of Mrs. Mathilda Herreman for willful perjury. The woman's alleged offense was in testimony which she gave before the Lexow committee that Justice Hogan had improperly interfered in the matter of a warrant which had been procured at her instance for the arrest of her sister, a step taken, as alleged, to save the daughter of the latter from entering upon a life of shame. Justice Hogan says the woman's story is utterly false so far as he is concerned.

THE NEXT LEGISLATURE.

A Few Questions to be Answered by Ron. Joseph Bodges Choace, President of the Constitutional Convention of 1894. FACT .- Section 1 of Article XV-"This Constitution shall be in force from and including the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, except as herein otherwise provided. "Done in Convention at the Capitol in the city of Albany, the twentyninth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and nineteenth.

"In witness whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our name. JOSEPH HODGES CHOATE,

President and Delegate-at-Large. FACT.—(The words "except as herein otherwise provided" allude to the Judiciary Article which is the only article where the date is "otherwise provided.")

QUESTION I. QUERY.—Is "this constitution" a complete instrument or is it not? QUESTION IL

QUERY.—If it is a complete instrument, can any word, phrase, or expression be interpolated to make this Constitution fit some condition or supply some deficiency? On the 29th day of September, 1894, you certified as president, to a resolu-tion adopted by the Convention and providing for the submission of the Constitution in three separate propositions. These three separate proposi-tions include the whole of the Constitution. One of the three propositions provides as fellows: FACT.—"If a majority of the vo.es cast indorsed "Constitutional Amendment Legislative Apportionment" shall contain on the inside the words 'For sections two, three, four and five of article three of the Revised Constitution relating to Legislative Apportionment, then the amended sections therein described shall be sections two, three, four and five of article three of the Constitution. If a majority of the votes cast, so indorsed, shall centain on the inside the words 'Against sections two, three, four and five of article three of the Revised Constitution relating to Legislative Apportionment. the said amendment shall be declared rejected and sections two, three, four and five of article three of the present Constitution shall remain in force and

The corollary of this last proposition will be that if a majority of the votes are found to be cast "For sections two, three, four and five of article three," then sections two, three, four and five of article three of the present Constitution shall not remain in force and

Section II. of Article III. of the proposed new Constitution provides for a Senate of fitty members and an Assembly of one hundred and fifty members, and is as follows.

"The Senate shall consist of fifty members, except as hereinafter provided. The Senators elected in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five shall hold their offices for three years, and their successors shall be chosen for two years. The Assembly shall consist of one hundred and fifty members who shall be chosen for one

FACT .- Section III of the same article provided for fifty Senatorial-districts and defines their geographical boundaries.

"The State shall be divided into fifty districts to be called 'Senate Districts,' each of which shall choose one Senator. The districts shall be numbered from one to fifty inclusive."

QUESTION III. QUERY -If this section is adopted, can any Legislature created under section two of article three of the old Constitution assemble and transact business?

QUESTION IV. QUERY.-If so, what Senatorial districts would the thirty-two Senators represent and what territory would their districts include under the new Constitution? QUESTION V.

QUERY .- Can section two and three of the old (or present) Constitution be in force in fact or by implication at the same time with sections two and three of the new (or proposed) Con-

QUESTION VI.

QUERY—If the Constitution says "the Senate shall consist of fitty members and the Assembly of one hundred and fifty," and, notwithstanding this provision, a Legislature of thirty-two members and an Assembly of one hundred and twenty-eight (as constituted under the old or present Constitution) should meet in January, 1895, for the transaction of business, will such proceedings lead to hitigation?

QUESTION VII. QUERY.-If a city, county, town or illige desires legislative authority to issue bonds, or to raise money, will the authority of a Legislature, not specifically provided for by the Costitution, be of such a character as to preclude some dissatisfied tax-payer from preventing the issue of such bonds, or the raising of such money?

QUESTION VIU. QUERY .- If the proposed form of Constitution will lead, by its adoption, to dispute, litigation and confusion, will it not be wise and prudent for the people to reject the instrument, or at least, its objectionable features?

A WORD TO BICYCLE RIDERS.

Senator Hill an Advocate of Fair Play and Good Roads. Chapter 704, of the Laws of 1887, gives breycle riders the rights and privileges of public parks. That act was signed by Governor David B. Hill against the protests of many people who opposed the rights and privileges of the public parks being granted to bicyclists. Let the bicycle rider remember this!

Governor David B. Hill recommended in his anual message of January, 7, 1890, and January 6, 1891, that a system of State roads should be inaugurated for the benefit of the people and particularly for the countless number of wheelmen. What candidate can best accomplish this desired result? Senator Hill carries purposes into execution. If he is elected there will be good State roads.

A CONVENTION OF MOTHERS.

It Decides That a Boy Is More of an Animal Than a Girl.

Seven hundred women recently held a national convention of mothers in Chicago to discuss matters pertaining to the problem of teaching the young idea how to shoot and were so well pleased with the results of their deliberations that they decided to meet annually hereafter and exchange views. The convocation sued by the Chicago Kindergar-MRS. J. N. CROUSE. ten college and was presided over by Mis. J. N. Crouse, president of the Kindergarten association. Almost every state of the union and several territories were represented. The range of subjects discussed was a wide one and included about everything from the subtle effects of prenatal influence upon the baby mind to the deleterious effects of candy between meals was held pursuant to a call is-

upon the baby stomach. One doting mamma created a sensation by declaring that she put her baby in a bag at night, but the sensation died out when she explained that the bag was simply used for the purpose of preventing the youngster from kicking off his clothes and acquiring a bad attack of the ever musical colic. Another mother said that her 6-ye prold boy had broken up about everything in the house except the kitchen range, which he was still at work on, and sle wanted to know if any girl could be such a "terror" as that boy. "Or is a boy more of an ammal than a girl?" she asked.

As there were 700 women and only about a dozen scared men in the hall, the convocation found no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that not only boys of 6, but boys of from 6 to 60, are somehow "nearer to primitive nature than are girls and women.'

Dr. Norman Bridge caused a flutter in motherly hearts by declaring the somewhat iconoclastic doctrine that fruit was not good for growing children and that candy was better. Dr. W. W. Jaggard, a specialist in gynecology, also made the interesting statement that it was impossible for a woman to infin ence the character and appearance of her child before birth, save by proper aftention to hygienic rules. Among the interested speciators at the convention were several babies who attempted to informally address the meeting new and then, but were either promptly silenced or carried from the hall.

Gallant Record of President Dodge of the Army of the Tennessee.

General Grenville M. Dodge, who was recently re-elected president of the Society of the Aimy of the Tennessce, as a wide reputation as a gallant soldier and capable railroad engineer. He is a native of Danvers, Mass., and is 60 years old. In 1550 he was graduated from a military academy in Norwich, Vt., and a year later began a promising career as a railroad surveyor. When the civil war began, the governor of Iowa seut him to Washington to obtain arms for state troops, and on June 17 of that year he became coloncl of the Fourth Iowa regiment, which he had raised.

He served in Missouri under General Fremont, and early in 1862 opened General Curtis' Arkansas campaign. He commanded a brigade at the battle of Pea Ridge, where three hor-es were shot under him in the thick of the fight. He was severely wounded in the side, but centinued directing the movements of his men until the final rout of the encmy. For his bravery he was made brigadier general of volunteers. In June, 1862, while in command of the district of the Mississippi, he superintended the

He was one of the first men to organize regiments of colored troops and during the Vicksburg campaign he made frequent raids into the enemy's country and indirectly protected the flanks of both Grant and Rosecrans. General Grant had a very high opinion of his services and placed his name at the head of his list of officers recommended for prometion. Brave and meritorious conduct at the battles of Sugar Valley and Resaca caused his promotion to major general in June, 1864. In Sherman's Georgia campaign Dodge led the Sixteenth corps, and at Atlanta July 22, backed by 11 regiments, he withstood the attack of General Hood's entire army corps. On Aug. 19, at the seige of Atlanta, he was so severely wounded that he was incapacitated from service. In December he succeeded Rosecrans as commander of the department of Missouri. In 1866 he left the army, and the Union Pacific railroad was built under his supervision. He served one term in congress and succeeded General Sherman as president of the Society of the Army of the Tennesses when Sherman

Hackettstown Miracle.

A RECITAL THAT WILL INTEREST EVERYONE-

Physicians Could Do No More-Relief Found at Last-A Modern Miracle,

From the Hackettstown, (N. J.) Republican. Reports from time to time reached the Republican of the remarkable cure of Mrs. Jacob Shields, the wife of our leading coal merchant, who had been suffering from a complication of diseases that nearly resulted in her death. In order to verify these statements, one of our reporters called upon Mrs. Shields and found that the reports in no way represented the great service that had been rendered her by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorito Remedy.

The particulars of the case, are these: "I was taken sick," said Mrs. Shields, "with typhoid fever, and was delirious for three weeks. When I recovered I suffered untold agony with my back and right limb, They felt as though they would burst. At the same time I suffered dreadfully with my kidneys. Blood would pass from me most of the time. My mother was with me, and a friend of hers called and told her of the sickness they had passed through at her home, and that Dr. David Kenneuy's Favorite Remedy had been used by tnem, and she felt sure I would find great benefit from its use.

"A bottle was purchased, and I hadn't taken but a few doses before it began to relieve me, and in a lew days some small, sharp, white stones passed from me. That evening the doctor called, and I told him that I had stopped his medicine, for he had told Mr. Shields the last time he called that he did not know what more to do for me. Some time before this I was taken to the Hospital, and then brought home, as was sup. possed, to die, Dr. David Kenneay's my neart that he ever sent that lady to tell me of Favorite Remedy, otherwise death would have been my doom. Since I have recovered, ever so many have told me that it was a miracle I ever got well. I certainly cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Many persons are using it upon my recommendation, and it is doing them good. I will cheerfally answer any questions," said Mrs. Shields, "in regard to my illness, feeling that others may be suffering and will be benefitted by using Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Bemedy."

No tribute to the efficacy of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy could be greater than these words of Mrs. Shields', who voluntarily tells the story of her remarkable recovery. and that this medicine should be used by persons suffering from diseases for which it is prepared.

Favorite Remedy ranks with the medical profession, as the most perfect of all blood and nerve medicines. It will cure all diseases of the skin, liver and kidneys, and the weaknesses peculiar to females, and affords great protection from attacks that originate in change of life. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, rheumatism, dyspepsia, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, gravel, diabetes and Bright's disease. Dr. David Kennedy's Favori e Rem-

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.-The Henry Me-Shane Manufacturing company notified its employes that beginning with today wages in the brass works and iron foundry will be reduced 10 per cent. Men in the other departments of the extensive plant will, it is said, be notified of a similar reduction this week. The company employs about 1,300 men. The reduction, they say, is owing to sharp competition with the iron goods manufactured in the Maryland penitentiary.

Genial, kindly,big hearted "Gabe" Tuthill ought to receive a big vote in Middletown. He has always been ready and willing to give his time and money in aid of any worthy cause, and no plan for the advancement of Middletown's interests ever failed of his hearty sympathy and support. Mr. Tuthill has done much for Middletown. Middletowners on Tuesday next should do something for Mr. Tutbill.

Do Democrats who are thinking of throwing away their votes on Wheeler, suppose that Harrison, McKipley and Reed were brought into New York State for the purpose of aiding reform of the Democratic party? Not a bit of it. They were brought here because of the effect the New York election will have on national pclities and to aid in the election of a Republican President in 1896. The Democrat who votes against his party in this election is giving all possible aid and comfort to the ene-

THE PARTY OF THE P

Republican poll workers have been ordered by the Republican campaign managers to let all the other amendments go by the board and to make special efforts to secure every vote possible for the apportionment amendment. This means that whatever of good they have claimed there is in the work of the convention as to LATEST BY TELESTORY be sacrificed in order to obtain an unjust and inequitable partisan advantage in the State Legislature. The Constitutional Convention cost directly and indirectly over $500,000 That is a big price to pay for fasten ing Rapublican control on the State by making a vote in a Democratic county count for only a little more than half that of a vote in a Re publican county. Vote against the iniquity. Its defeat is more important even than the election of Serator Hill.

Ben "Odle's" canvass must be in desperate straits. His rersonal organ, the Newburgh News, has taken to calling his opponent the "Rupel Ives," and an anonymous circular, enclosing Odell's pasters, has been sent to veterans, appealing to them to vote for Odell because Mr. Ives "in public utterances in both the Assembly and Senate, has upheld the cause of the Confederacy, and is as bitter in his denunciation of the Un ion cause as ever." Of course this is a lie and the man who wrote and malled the circular know it to be a lie, or he would not have been ashamed to sign his name to it. Mr. Ives is less than thirty-five years old and was little more than a babe in arms at the time of the rebellion, and this attempt to identify him with the lost cause only shows desperation, baseness and unscrurulousness on the part of his opponent.

THE TRUTH OF HISTORY.

Republican spellbinders and newspapers who are howling calamity as a result of tariff reform and insisting that the only hope of permanent prosperity is in the restoration of McKinley duties are blind to the facts of history.

There is now no dispute that the "free trade tariff" of 1846 worked well. Even Mr. Blaine was constrained to admit the fact in his "Twenty Years of Congress." After pointing out that the Whig victory of 1848 was not decisive enough to warrant any attempt to change the tariff if there had been a desire, he confesses that there was no desire He proceeds in his record of this period as follows:

"The tariff of 1846 was yielding abundant revenue, and the business of the country was in a flourishing condition at the time Gen. Taylor's administration was organized. Money became very abundant after the year 1849, large enterprises were undertaken, speculation was preva lent, and for a considerable period the prosperity of the country was general and apparently genuine. After 1852 the Democrats had almost un-disputed control of the government. and had gradually become a free-trade party. The principles embodied in the tariff of 1846 seemed for the time to be so entirely vindicated and approved that resistance to it ceased, not only among the people, but among the protective economists and even among the manufacturers to a certain extent. So general was this acquiescence that in 1856 a protective tariff was not suggested or even hinted by any one of the three parties which presented presidential candidates. It was not surplising, therefore, that with a plethoric condition of the national treasury for two or three consecutive years, the Democratic Congress, in the closing session of Pierce's administration, enacted what has since been known as the tariff of 18.7. By this law the duties were placed lower than they had been at any time since the war of 1812. The act was well received by the people and was indeed con curred in by a considerable portion of the Republican party.

Mr. Blaine is not the only eminent Republican who bore testimony to the beneficence of the revenue tariffs of '46 and '57. When the Morrell tariff bill was before Congress, Henry Wilson, then Senator from Massachusetts and afterwards Vice-President, said, Feb. 18th, 1861:

"I had rather stand on the tariff of 1857 than take this bill I vote for it to is crease the revenues of the government. . . I want no man to vote for this bill in order to protect the interests of Massachusetts; for the tariff of 1857; precisely and exactly as it stands upon your statue book, to-day, so far as the productive industry of the commonwealth of Massachusetts is concerned, in all its various departments, amounting to $350,000,000 annually, is the best tariff ever put upon the statue books of this country. That is my judgment, and by passing this hill we shall gain nothing as a state.

I shall vote for the bill, but I vote for it to raise revenue; I vote for it as a revenue measure, and I dis claim altogether any idea that, as a measure of protection, the state that I represent is to be benefited by it."

Everything indicates that the Wilson tariff will work as well as the revenue tariff, which Senator Wilson so highly commended. Business everywhere is reviving, and on every hand are seen evidences of assured and permanent prosperity. No greater calamity could bef il the country than a renewal of tariff agitation. What the business interests of the country most need is peace, and every cit zen can help to secure that peace and thus promote his own welfere by voting to rebuke those reckless partisans what to advance personal and political ands, are cry-Ingruir, and seeking to destroy national prosperity and progress.

THE CHURCH TRIAL AT ST. PAUL'S

The Court in Session Until After Midnight-A Bozen Witnesses Examined The church court at St. Paul's M.

E. Church for the trial of Mrs. E. C. Royce on the charge of circulating false and damaging reports concerning Dr. Darwood and members of the church, was in session until after midnight, it having been 12:30 o'clock, when an a journment was taken until Nov. 20th. The long adjournment is because of the engagements of the lawyers in the case in the circuit of the Supreme Court to be held at Newburgh, Nov. 12th.

The court met at 2:30 o'clock, The first matter that engaged its attention was whether witnesses, not members of the caureb, should be excluded during the trial. In this connection the matter of the admission of reporters was considered and it was finally decided that witnesses not members of the church could only be admitted while giving their testimony and that reporters were personae non gratæ.

We are told that it was a great surprise to the prosecution when lawyers Esmond and McLaughlin ap peared for the defense, it having been assumed that Mrs. Royce would be defended by a layman.

About a dozen of the fifteen or more witnesses for the prosecution were examined. The witnesses were examined by Judge Groo and crossexamined by Mr. McLaughlin, who made it extremely uncomfortable for some of them and elicited some teatlmony, which, while not bearing directly on the case at issue, was not all creditable to Dr. Darwood.

BUSY TIMES IN PORT JERVIS. All Pactories Running on Full Time -Work for all.

Prom the Port Jerois Gazelle. Aday or two ago we made mention in the Gazette of the great amount of work that is now being turned out at the shirt factory of E. Millen & Co, of this place, and of their wish to iacrease their force from about sixtyfive hands to at least one hundred during the winter.

Last evening, in conversation with a boss carpenter, he informed us that it was almost impossible to get all the carpenters he needed for the work he had contracted for.

We also understand that the factories of the villiage are running on full time and have plenty of orders on hand for the work they are turning out.

We are glad to be able to state business is picking up to such an extent as to mean an increased amount of money paid out every weak for la bor and through the laborer every branch of business in the place feels its e flects.

CHURCH RUL'S DEFIED.

A Body Buried by Force in the Catholic Cemetery at Binghamton.

Mrs. Mary Kane was found dead Sinday morning, in the kitchen of her house in Binghamton. It was decided that she died of slcoholism, and her relatives were refused permission to bury her in the family plot in the Catholic Cemetery. The body was placed in the receiving vault of Floral Park Cemetery.

Early Thursday morning, six or more persons appeared at the Catholic Cometery and demanded that the sexton admit them. This he refused to do and they broke open the gates, went to the Kine family plot, dug a grave, placed Mrs. Kane's body therein and hastily shoveled back the earth. None of the party were rec ognized by the sexton.

The priest and prominent members of St. Patrick's Church were notified, but as yet nothing has been done about the matter, though it is not believed that the church authorities will submit to this bold defiance of church rules.

ORGANIZING THE COLORED VOTERS

An Interesting Meeting on Fulton Street-A Republican Committeeman Who Wants to flire Hen to Work on Election Day-Varying Estimates as to the Price.

A prominent member of the Republican city committee went down to Fulton street, last night, to organiz+ the colored voters for election day.

The meeting was held in the Pioneer Band room. Heeson Warner was made chairman and introduced the distinguished visitor.

The plan of organization decided on by the Republican managers was apparently that adopted by Ben Odeli in the Richardson-Lamont Senatoriel campaign, when the negroes of Newburgh were corralled into an or ganization called the Sherman Club. and voted in a block, at so much per head.

In the talk, last night, not a word was said about buying v tes; that would have been bribery and the Republican party is a moral party and is running a high-toned campelgn. A great deal was said, however, about biring men to work on election day; that's only beating the devil about the buch, and fools no one, though it sounds a little bet-

There was a difference of opinion as to what price ought to be paid for election day work. The Republican committeeman thought $150 about right. The colored voters didn't agree with them. Most of them "had their eyes sot" on $5 Somethought they ought to have $10. Others said their day's work was worth $20 and George Hasbrouck said he had once been paid $60 for "work" on election day.

A difference of opinion also arose as to when payment should be made. Sam Beasley insisted on spot cash, that when the "work" was done the man should be paid for his "work." The settlement of terms and time of payment will be brought up again at a meeting to be held to-night.

As preliminary to the round up a club was formed with Theodore Warner as Chairman and Gus Diamond, Secretary. John Jarvis, Gus Diamond and Theodore Warner were appointed poll workers, but there was a great kick over the selection of these men and a lot offnew workers may be chosen to night.

REVOLUTION IN FRANCE.

The Thinly Veiled Prophecy of a Correspondent Based on Socialistic Agitation.

The pro-pect grows stronger of serious manifestations of socialism in French politics during this month, says the London correspondent of the New York Sun. The socialist victory in the election to all the vacancy caused by Casimir Perier's elevation to the presidency has tilled the party with enthusiasm, and they no longer conceal their intention to overslrow the president by means of a chaliti a with his opponents in the chamber, if possible. It is repeatedly asserted that the president will not much longer retain Dupuy at the head of the cubinet, but the remors of a cabinet crisis appear to be premature. The Paris consequent of the London Times even ventures a thinly verted prophecy of revolution. He has just written:

"Neither Casimir Perier nor anybody else can do anything against socialism. When the bourgeoisic perceive that the socialists are agreed on devouring them, differing only as to the sauce with which they are to be served up, they will recommence the game which has been going on for a century. They will fling themselves into the arms of a deliverer, stipulating not for liberty or equality or anything of that sort, but simply for riddance from the nightmare of socialism. They will acclaim the man who allows them to go quietly to sleep and to wake without uneasiness; hence pretenders, impatient or otherwise, may be advised to say not that they love liberty, but that they love force; not fraternity, but authority; not equality, but

MASONIC EDILDING,

WHAT DREAMS MAY COME.

Haunting me ever, there comes and goes A line from an eld song's tender close, Its burden the sweetest—the saddest, too, For the altered lives it has echoed through— "Love, had you loved me!" The words are few, But through them an infinite passion flows.

"Love, had you loved me!" Perhaps the key To many a grief this thought may be; To a sorrow that stirs at the magic strain And steps from its prison, barred in vain, To crush with the old, releatless pain The heart that has guarded it faithfully.

Ah, fondest and truest, whose brown eyes shine With the tenderest lovelight, I am thine

Forever, thou heart of my heart, and yet The breath of an April violet Wakens a longing, a deep regret For eyes as blue, that were never mine.

"Love, had you loved me!" what life would be Attuned to that passionate melody! Sad hearts unblest, that must still repino For the draft untasted of love's rich wine, Bitter the memories that haunt this line Of "Love, had you loved me!" so mournfully.

A MAN OF PREY.

Toward Singapore, out of the sunset glare, a long, slashing schooner came spanking in before the southwest monsoon at a pace which procured for her from prahu, lorcha and sampang an uncommonly wide berth. Off Pulo Panjan, however, the stranger put his helm down, got in his square canvas and went away, close hauled, west by north along the coast.

"See that, Sam?" and Proddy of Proddy & Newman let his cheroot go out as he gaped after the flying schooner. Proddy had been over to Bintang, and Sam was skipper of his little steam yacht.

"Aye, sir, I see that, and I see the reason of it, too," and Sam pointed to a streaming wisp of yellow at the top of a headless palm on Panjan point. "Schooner-hauled her-wind the instant that bit o' bunting went aloft."

"Private signal, eh? And quarantine colors too! Devilish odd! Don't concern us, though!" and Proddy, the pot bellied, lit another Manila.

Over the domestic establishment of Simon Proddy, Esq., presided a lady who rejoiced in a stearine complexion, a velvety eye and hair for length and blackness like unto a horse's tail, but who, despite French habiliments and an English education, was a China woman pure and simple.

"A wonderful woman, sir!" would Proddy say. "Worth any half a dozen white women I ever knew! And the best of it is that her sisters and her consins and her aunts are God knows where! Couldn't quite stand them, you know!"

But, all unknown to Proddy, his brevet wife possessed a father-a sophisticated old sinner, who dabbled with dubious irons in mysterious fires and carried about as much rascality to the square inch as any in Singapore. And little thought Proddy, when he one day ordered off his premises a doddering, old, spectacled Chow, that into that astute brain of Mrs. Proddy's respected parent there had that very moment been born a scheme for the conversion into a valuable security of his, Proddy's, substantial person.

Well, up the old Singapore strait the mysterious schooner had let go her anchor. In here, between the back of the island and the mainland, the sou' wester came but faintly, and the Raphael H. Semmes, under lee of Tanjong Belu, lay stirless and silent upon an ink mirror. Her forestay showed no "riding light," nor through the tarpaulin blinded skylight could come any glimmer from below, where lounged a frock coated and pot hatted little man of slender build and mild, reflective eye. There wasn't much to indicate the most reckless desperado the archipelago had ever seen-a deserter from the famous Alabama during her visit to the strait in 1865. Crocky Dixon had since sailed slap through many a law of many a nation, and, though report perhaps exaggerated in asserting that he ought long ago to have adorned a yardarm, it was cortain that he hadn't acquired his pleasing appellation for nothing. But now the Crocodile, with a black trichinopoly in its jaws and a bottle of Madeira at its elbow, appeared "a gentle beast enough and of an excellent conscience,' a fact which, to those who knew the reptile best, boded very ill for somebody.

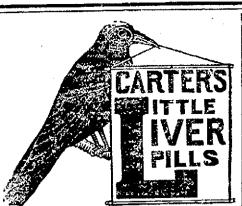

"At here, master, now come. Very great thing to want to settle at now quick."

Away among the jungle, toward the back of the island, Proddy had a gambler plantation, the overseer whereof was Whang Lo, and Whang Lo's English, as above presented, Proddy understood well enough. But what he didn't understand-as he told the lemon tinted Mrs. Proddy-was what the devil it could be that required his presence in such a hurry! If it was another cooly nabbed by a tiger, he'd wake the authorities up to some purpose! The brutes were breeding on the island like rabbits, and the reward wasn't quarter big enough!

About an hour after Proddy, growling thus, had departed into the darkness, Mrs. Proddy, idly turning over Whang Lo's sereed, discovered on the back thereof three tiny Chinese characters, of which-so far had English displaced her hereditary language-sho understood but one. That one, however, was enough—it signified "danger" and in three minutes Mrs. Proddy was on her way to the nearest police tannah.

"Do not come!" translated the old Javani sergeant-"Danger!-the crocodilei The true word, this, on back!" he added promptly. "Bad men make he write the other-this when nobody look, he put, so Missa Proddy no come!" And then, with Mrs. Proddy, the acute old man sent off a peon to the central office. Here she had a short interview with the superintend at, who, in turn, had, 20 minutes later, a short interview with the lieutenant commanding her majesty's gunbeat Tickler.

"Oh, that ruffian Dixon!" Lieutenant Dawson said. "Why, we're getting Moreh St., Middletewn | steam up now to go around and see what

"Case of ransom, I take it! This Dixon's brought off something of the kind before up Penang way. They've nabbed old Proddy at his plantation by this time, I expect, and, if they can, they'll run him over to some den on the Bornean coast and keep him till goveriment or the merchants come down with something handsome. The so called Mrs. Proddy's father is about the biggest scoundrel in Singapore, and I fancy he's in this job with Crocky. If so, the negotiations would be made through him-but, meantime, it's your own part to burst up this pleasing little arrangement!"

Old Proddy—for all his stomach—defended himself like a paladin and had to be knocked on the head with a boat stretcher, so that he knew no more until, peeping through a port at break of day, he saw a misty shore slide slowly past him, as before a gentle air the schooner stood eastward under every stitch she could spread. "That shore, Proddy, Esq., is Obin island, from which little suckumstance you'll jedge that we're a-standin to the eastward out of this here hell trap of a strait of yours. An, as to what we're a-takin you, Proddy, Esq., -that you'll find out before you're a powerful deal

"You'll have the Tickler after you before you're much older!" snorted the astounded Proddy.

"Hardly thet, Proddy, Esq.! You see there won't be no muss made about you before this evenin, and, as we'll catch the monsoon strong again in the offin your footy little smoke pot of a Tickler will jest hev the hull univarsal ocean to overhaul for as by tomor-Great Jefferson!" and down went Crocky's jaw, as, glancing through the port, a slender trail of smoke led down his eye to a little white hull just rounding Franklin point.

In three seconds Crocky was on deck -rapid, resolute and cool. "Chased sooner than we expected, lads! No get away now with Proddy, Esq. -but, without him, I guess we'll fix it! Get the dingy over the side-smart, now! We'll send his friends on a little excursion to rescoo him from a wat-tery

Within three minutes the dingy was adrift, with a bit of canvas set for'ard, and Proddy-lest he should dowse itlashed to a ringbolt in the stern sheets. The resourceful Crocky, bringing the wind upon his port quarter, stood away due north, between Obin and Tukang.

Aboard the gunboat there was no hesitation. Reluctantly a course was shaped for the little waif, scarce visible now against the sunrise, as faster and faster the freshening wind drove her out to sea, so that by the time the drenched and stiffened Proddy had been hoisted aboard the Tickler the namesake of the Alabama's captain was being warped into a winding offshoot of the Johore river, wherein, with topmasts housed, she lay snug till dark. Then, with the ebb, she dropped down again to sea, and sunrise found her well away into the gulf of Siam.

Mrs. Proddy had her reward in installments. The first when before high heaven the grateful Proddy confirmed her wifely status; the second when, by the orders of the secret society of which her estimable parent was an ornament, her cook, a member also of the "hoey, mixed something with her morning coffee that speedily made of Proddy the inconsolable widower he is to this day. -Alexander Montgomery in Sydney Bul-

Long she stood at the window and mused. The rays of the setting sun entangled themselves in her Titian hair or surrounded her glorious height of 5 feet 8 with an aureate halo. Proud, queenly, limbed like a goddess, she was indeed a magnificent specimen of femininity.

"Strange," she muttered. And then a soft, self pitying, half happy smile flitted across her face like a gleam of April sunshine.

His Full Name. In The Independent James Payn says that in the beginning of the present century an American sea captain, having some business in a public office in London, was very tedious in the operation of signing his name. As it happened to be Papp, this annoyed the official, who thought his valuable time was being wasted, but as it happened he was mistaken. The captain had only written his full name, "Through-much-tribulation - we - enter - into the - kingdom-ofheaven Papp." "May I ask you," said the official, "what your mother called you when she wanted you?" "Well, sir, when I was little," was the grave reply, "they used to call me Tribby."

That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzied. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time. Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as fur removed from failure as ju-tified by the natural ability he may possess,

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mind in mind, but I could find no e until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world. I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance or a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive r-cord beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority or these points. I only know that there is produced a second Platarch's Lives, that it biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and withou prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work. This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

"Casteria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. Mme. d'Aibertin, one of the lesser painters of France, was as conceited about artistic ability as she was notorious for her excessive use of cosmetics. On one occasion a certain count who held her in much disesteem lost a bet to her. "And what will madame choose?" he asked, with mock courtesy.

"Something in my art," she simpered, something I can paint."

SMPROVEMENTS AT MIDWAY PARK.

Work on the Billiard Room and Bowling Alley-Grading for the Roller Coaster Nearly Completed.

Many people took advantage of the delightful weather of yesterday afternoon and rode to Midway Park. The cars were well filled all day and In the afternoon they were crowded.

Work upon the billiard and pool room and upon the bowling alley buildings is being pushed rapidly. The frame work is completed in the latter building and the rafters for the roof are being put in place.

The grading for the roller coaster is pearly flaished. It is doubtful, however, if the rails will be laid beforenext spring. The roller coaster will start from the observatory and winding around the hill in a wide detour will land its passengers at the park station. A curved trostle has been erected at the entrance of the park over which the roller cars will pass. The cars will be returned to the observatory by means of the inclined railway.

The water in the Wallkill River is higher than it has been at any time during the past season, and the stream, full to its panks, presents a beautiful and attractive appearance.

WHAT DREAMS MAY COME.

Haunting me ever, there comes and goes A line from an old song's tender close, Its burden the sweetest—the saddest, too, For the altered lives it has echoed through-"Love, had you loved me!" The words are few But through them an infinite passion flows.

"Love, had you loved me!" Ferhaps the key To many a grief this thought may be; To a sorrow that stirs at the magic strain And steps from its prison, barred in vain, To crush with the old, relentless pain The heart that has guarded it faithfully.

DIPHTHERIA ON THE EAST BRANCH

A Delaware County Locality That Is Afflicted With a Beadly Form of the

Diphtheria has again broken out along the East Branch of the the Delawars in the towns of Colchester and Hancock. The Walton Reporter says: At Shinhopple, a seven-year-old child of Joe Watson, who occupies John Penny's house, is very sick with the disease. At Harvard, six miles below, there are several new cases. The children of Marshall Frazier, who occupies a part of Mrs. Chas. Roof's house, have the disease in a virulent form, and the children of Clayton Barnes, are also sick with diphtheria. The mortality which has attended diphtheria cases along the East Branch during the past three years, is something fearful, eight out of ten of those stricken with the disease having died. Remembering this the outbreak of the plague has almost caused a panic.

Fect Sore and Thumbs Useless. Doctors and Medicine no Avail. Terrible Suffering. . Cured in Four Weeks by CUTICURA.

I have a boy, fifteen years old, who had the eczema so offensive that I could not stay in the room with him. The poor boy suffered terribly. His feet were terribly sore, he could not wear any shoes, and had therefore to stay at home from school. When he put on dry stockings in the morning, they would in one hour be saturated with moisture, and very offers we would be saturated with moisture, and very offers we would be saturated with moisture.

they would in one hour be saturated with moisture, and very offensive even in the coldest weather. The disease began to spread over his body, especially his hands and fingers. The thumbs on both his hands became stiff and as useless as two withered sticks of wood. It would be useless for me to try to tell the suffering this boy endured. I took him to two different doctors; both gave him lots of medicine, but all to no use He grew worse. I therefore despaired of ever having him cured. One day I saw the great benefits promised to those who would use Cutt-cura Remedies. I went right away to the drug store and bought them. However, I used them according to directions, and to-day I say truthfully to all the world, that my son is entirely cured, thank God and thank the discoverers of Cuticura Remedies. They cared him in four weeks as sound as a gold dollar.
